Stages of Development

How did you feel before the peer review?

Just one more thing to do...sigh!

How did you feel before the peer review?

Excited to try new things, happy to have specific time with colleagues both in giving and getting feedback. Anxious about how management would use any feedback in a negative way.

How did you feel before the peer review?

A bit nervous because I only just joined the team, however... it was great to know I was going into a workplace that is concerned with best practice.

Challenges

- Preconceptions
- Time
- Concerns about the process

Challenges

I didn't like not having an option of opting out if I wanted to.

Challenges

Some colleagues needed to be reminded that we were partnered up. I was a bit uncomfortable when one colleague talked about their session.

Challenges

	Somewhat agree	Agree
I'm able to tailor the peer observation to my needs.	3:7	4:7
I feel in control of the feedback.	4:7	3:7

Challenges

- Complexity of materials
- Concerns about giving negative feedback

Benefits of the new process

Team identity

Our approach is more cohesive and consistent, new team members will integrate in better and... [observe] evidence-based strategies and resources.

Benefits of the new process

Team identity

...explicitly putting together our team values and then unpacking what they look like and understanding what it is like for a student to get feedback.

What the team reported:

	Agree
It enhanced collegial relationships.	7:7

Benefits of the new process

Performance evaluation

The level of reflection has been at a high level: critical, professionally respectful, progressive and really developmental for the team - Manager

Benefits of the new process

Performance evaluation

Reflecting on their own practice and being aware of what their role is ... to me that IS evidence - Manager

Benefits of the new process

PD

I now have more awareness about the need to build students' confidence and some strategies to do this.

Benefits of the new process

PD

It gave us an opportunity to have an open dialogue about our practice and our concerns in a safe setting.

What the team reported:

	Agree
It provided worthwhile PD.	7:7

What the team reported:

	Agree	Somewhat	Total
It was useful for my performance review.	3:7	3:7	6:7
It gave the opportunity to workshop challenging consultations.	4:7	2:7	6:7

Benefits of the new process

- Increased accountability and transparency
- Balances PD and performance evaluation

Balancing PD with Performance Evaluation

What PD looks like:

- Personalised focus
- Control and confidentiality
- Peer-to-peer
- Reporting

Balancing PD with Performance Evaluation

What Evaluation looks like:

- Participation
- Learning Showcase
- Reporting

How did you feel after the peer review?

Thank goodness that that's over!

How did you feel after the peer review?

Relieved

How did you feel after the peer review?

Inspired

How did you feel after the peer review?

More confident in myself and my abilities.

How did you feel after the peer review?

Positive about the experience and looking forward to another round - or it being a regular thing.

Future Opportunities

- Technology
- Student input
- Other applications
 - Moderation
 - Group teaching
 - Peer learning
 - Cross institution collaboration

Conclusion

- Balancing expectation, wants and needs is challenging
- All stakeholders reported significant benefits
- Process has resulted in a unified team that thinks critically about who we are, what we do, and how and why we do it
